Musical Meetings

Musical meetings of the San Francisco Folk Music Club are held every 2nd and 4th Friday at Cyprian’s ARC, 2097 Turk Street (at Lyon), San Francisco. There is plenty of street parking, but if you can't find anything closer, you may park in the blood bank lot at Turk and Masonic. Cyprian's asks that if we park in the lot, we use a parking pass. Parking passes are stored on the info table right inside the front entrance of the church. You can pull up to the front entrance and step inside to get one before you park. You can keep it in your car for future use since they are not dated. Singing and jamming start at 8:00 pm; we start clean-up at 11:30 and need to leave by midnight. Two of the rooms require earlier leaving times. Bring finger-food snacks and beverages if you can. Guests are always welcome, and no one is expected to “perform”. Cyprian’s charges us rent; we ask those who can to donate $5 to $10 per evening, but if you can’t donate, we still want you to join us!

In consideration of our members' allergies and other concerns, only service animals are permitted at SFFMC events, and all our events are fragrance-free. The wearing of perfumes or heavily-scented products is not permitted. If a situation arises that cannot be easily remedied, members may be asked to show responsibility by taking their pet home or going home to change out of clothing that has picked up the offending scents.

Home on the Range

by Marlene McCall

Everyone knows it, this classic western folk song often called the "unofficial anthem" of the American West. But what many people know are only the first verse and the chorus. And the chorus most people know is not even the chorus as it was originally written.

You can listen to a 2014 version by Tom Roush, but with the words as they were originally written, here: <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=O1zrO3c6Y3o>.

The words were written by Dr. Brewster Higley, who moved in 1871 from Indiana to Smith County, Kansas under the Homestead Act. Margaret A. Nelson, in her 1947 book Home on the Range, describes Dr. Higley as "a man with a polished voice and accent", who had staked a claim on West Beaver Creek, living in a small cabin, and soon became popular with the settlers. Higley was "quiet, retiring, and often drank to excess" when he became "broody and melancholy," but despite this "he was always a gentleman." Inspired by his surroundings, he wrote a poem called "My Western Home", which was published in the Smith County Pioneer in 1872. (The home in which he lived at the time he wrote that poem is now listed on the National Register of Historic Places as "The Home on the Range Cabin".)

Dr. Brewster Higley
late 19th century

Here are the original lyrics:

(1) Oh, give me a home where the buffalo roam,
Where the deer and the antelope play;
Where seldom is heard a discouraging word,
And the sky is not cloudy all day.

CHORUS: A home, a home,
Where the deer and the antelope play;
Where seldom is heard a discouraging word,
And the sky is not clouded all day.

(2) Oh, give me a land where the bright diamond sand
Throws its light from the glittering stream;
Where gliding along, the graceful white swan
Like a maid in a heavenly dream. CHORUS

(3) Oh! give me a gale of the Solomon vale,
Where the live streams with buoyancy flow;
On the banks of the Beaver, where seldom if ever,
Any poisonous herbage doth grow. CHORUS

(4) How often at night when the heavens are bright
With the light of the twinkling stars,
Have I stood here amazed and asked as I gazed
If their glory exceeds that of ours. CHORUS

(5) I love the wild flowers in this bright land of ours
I love the wild curlew's shrill scream;
The bluffs and white rocks, and the antelope flocks
That graze on the mountain so green. CHORUS

(6) The air is so pure and the breezes so fine,
The zephyrs so balmy and light,
That I would not exchange my home here to range
Forever in azures so bright. CHORUS

Those of you familiar with the way the song is generally sung today will notice that the words "home on the range" appear nowhere in these lyrics, with the chorus instead beginning "A home, a home" and the last verse ending with the with "I would not exchange my home here to range forever in azures so bright."

Dr. Higley, while treating a patient in 1873, asked him to read the poem, which was written on a foolscap sheet of paper. The patient and his family insisted that the doctor get somebody to write a tune for the poem. Higley's friend Daniel Kelley wrote the melody on his guitar, and the Harlan Brothers Orchestra (composed of Dan Kelley, his wife, Lulu Harlan Kelley, and two of her brothers) proceeded to play it at settlers' meetings, weddings, and other celebrations, where it became a favorite dance tune. Ranchers, cowboys, and other western settlers also adopted the song, and it spread throughout the United States in various forms.

The song was published in 1910 in Cowboy Songs and Other Frontier Ballads by John Lomax, who said that he learned it from a black saloonkeeper in Texas. Its popularity led to a plagiarism suit that created a search for its background (which resulted in the discovery of the historical information described above).

The lyrics published by Lomax were similar to the original poem in some ways but different in others, clearly altered by the folk process. Although not all of the verses were in the same sequence as the original, I'll mention them in the same order so you can more easily compare them to those above. Verses (1), (2), (4) and (5) were quite similar to the original, so I will not take up space by printing them here. But here are the chorus and verses (3) and (6) from the Lomax version.

CHORUS:

Home, home on the range,
Where the deer and the antelope play;
Where seldom is heard a discouraging word,
And the skies are not cloudy all day.

(3) The red man was pressed from this part of the West
He's likely no more to return
To the banks of Red River where seldom if ever
Their flickering campfires burn. CHORUS

(6) Where the air is so pure, the zephyrs so free,
The breezes so balmy and light,
That I would not exchange my home on the range
For all the cities so bright. CHORUS

In 1925, Texas composer David Guion arranged it as sheet music. The song has since gone by a number of names, the most common being "Home on the Range" and "Western Home". It was officially adopted as the state song of Kansas on June 30, 1947. In 2010, members of the Western Writers of America chose it as one of the Top 100 western songs of all time.

The Monkeys' Day Off

By Adam Miller

In my misspent boyhood, I was always so distracted with my own peculiar interests, urges, and compulsions, that I never really had a plan. I learned that sometimes it's better to follow the path of least resistance, like the river, even if it makes you crooked. Destiny is affected by the accidental, the random, and the insignificant, as well as the intentional.

When I was a kid living on First Street in Pacific Grove, California, our next-door neighbor was an organ grinder.

For more than four decades, Phil could be found at the entrance to Monterey's historic Fisherman's Wharf, turning his hand-cranked barrel organ while his monkeys collected coins from delighted tourists. It was one of the big kicks of my boyhood to walk down the railroad tracks to the wharf, beckoned by the distant music of the barrel organ, and await my turn to hold out a nickel. The sensation of the monkey's tiny hand brushing against my fingertips as he deftly removed the coin from my grasp never ceased to both thrill and terrify me.

Fifty years ago, when I knew him, Phil was a long-haired, rather bohemian fellow in his twenties, with sideburns and a waxed mustache. It's not surprising that Phil worked alone with his monkeys. He was kind of a scary guy and we rarely spoke to him. In the early 1970s, Phil shared his home with his two capuchin monkey co-workers, Jimmy and Gomez. The monkeys had their own bedroom, with an enormous cage set in front of the widow. If you climbed up on the roof of our garage, you could look into the monkeys' bedroom window, just a few feet away.

One fateful day in my thirteenth year, believing that the neighbors were not at home, my brother and I climbed up onto the roof of our garage. We hoped to catch a glimpse of Jimmy and Gomez while off duty, in their bedroom, doing whatever it is that professional monkeys do when they're not plying their trade. Moments later, I happened to glance into the next window. I saw that Phil was not only home, he was not alone and he was not standing up. Although I was a kid, I fully understood the implications of this observation as he glared at me through the bedroom windowpane. Naturally, he reported the "incident" to my disappointed mother. As a consequence for my indiscretion, I was grounded-to-home from all activities except public school and, rather arbitrarily, classes at the local Children's Experimental Theater.

So, like the river, I chose the path of least resistance. In order to escape house arrest after school, I began volunteering for as many activities as possible at the Children Theater: acting, fencing, setting lights, building sets, and painting scenery. Through my high school years, I worked at the theater full-time and soon it was my livelihood. This twist of fate began my path to performing on stage and ultimately to my current occupation (the one in which Folksongs travel through History and History travels through Folksongs).

CHORUS: I am the wind that blows a - cross the moun - tains; I am the ri - ver run - ning to the sea; I am the rain that falls up - on the val - leys;
I am part of them, and they are part of me. VERSE: So long a - go
I was a ro - ver. I wan - dered far on land and sea,
To find some - one who had the ans - wers; Till I found that they were all in - side of me

CHORUS:

I am the wind that blows across the mountains
I am the river running to the sea
I am the rain that falls upon the valleys
I am part of them, and they are part of me.

So long ago I was a rover,
I wandered far on land and sea;
To find someone who had the answers
Till I found that they were all inside of me.

Chorus

I've seen the sun start up a new day
Held back the night with candle's flame
Tasted the wine of love's beginning
Learned to listen when the river called my name.

Chorus

The years unfold just like a flower
The sapling soon becomes a tree
I walk beside my children's children
I am part of them, and they are part of me.

Chorus

The time will come when this life's over
As raindrops fall into the sea;
And when I'm gone you will remember
I'm still part of them, and they are part of me.

ABOUT THE SINGER & SONGWRITER

Cathy Ross is a singer-songwriter in the Pacific Northwest who has been writing and singing folk music for 30 years and is a long-time member of Seattle Song Circle.

Cathy Ross describes her inspiration for this song: "This song came to me as I was walking with my twin grandsons when they were about one and a half and I realized 'I'm walking with my children's children'. It felt wonderful but I also felt my own mortality – that I wouldn't be there for all of their lives, yet I would always be a part of them, so that inspired the third verse. Over the next few weeks I wrote the other verses and the chorus. Most of my songs come to me that way – a moment in time intensifies a feeling in me and becomes a song or a poem (I published a book of poetry a few years ago)."

By the way, those twin boys are now 15!

This song is on Cathy's CD "Trust the River" She is a singer-songwriter in the Pacific Northwest and has been writing and singing folk music for 30 years. The CD is available via text to 206 817-8472.

In the night sky, you can hear the geese cry, When it's time for the go-ing home song The gull on the shore's sail-ing home-ward once more, For it's time for the go-ing home song CHORUS Trav'-lers the wide world all o-ver, May your star fol-low you thru the night, With the storm clouds at bay, At the end of the day, Then it's time for the go-ing home, time we were get-ting home, time for the go-ing home song.

In the night sky you can hear the geese cry
When it's time for the going home song
 the gull on the shore sailing homeward once more.
For it's time for the going home song

CHORUS:

Travelers this wide world all over
 May your star follow you through the night
 With the storm clouds at bay
 At the end of the day
 then it's time for the going home—
 time were were getting home—
 Time for the going home song/

2. The fox on the dunes looking out for the moon
When it's time for the going home song
 The shepherd and dogs wend their way with their flocks.,
For it's time for the going home song

Chorus

3. There'll be peace once again over valley and plain
When it's time for the going home song
 While the mist from the sea spins its own mystery
For it's time for the going home song..

Chorus

About the Singer & Songwriter

According to a recent online post on the Mudcat Café, Jim James still sings this song from time to time. In his words: "I still play the Stan Francis 12-string that was mentioned (always known as Bertha !).... STILL sing the song when the time's right but usually on a six-string. For me, the song wrote itself in basically one session (which is unusual for me but magic when it happens)...and actually fulfilled an ambition of mine which was to have a song pass into the tradition and to hear it sung WITHOUT people knowing where it came from or who wrote it....in other words, through the oral tradition. So the song was at least 15 years old before it was recorded... and then in Polish."

Thanks, Jim, for giving us permission to share your commentary with our folk community!
